(Special Correspondence.)

Exeter, August 18. A very sad and untimely death was that of Thomas Sullivan, which occurred at his home on Arbor street at seven o'clock this morning, at the age of twenty-one years and two days. Death was due to pneumonia, from which he had suffered for a short time. Mr. Sullivan was one of the best known and most widely popular young men of the town. He was employed in the packing room of Gale's shoe shop, and was highly esteemed by both the management and employees. As a con singer he had no equal in this vicinity and he has participated in many entertainments. He was a member of the choir of St. Michael's church. He leaves a mother, Mrs. Daniel L. Sullivan, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Anderson, both of this town. His death has cast a heavy gloom over the family and large circle of friends.

The republican checklist was posted yesterday. It contains 711 names. A committee will be in the club rooms tomorrow evening and Wednesday afternoon and evening for the purpose of corrections.

J. Frank DeMerritt, who is connected with the Review of Reviews, is spending a vacation at his mother's home in Exeter.

The school board has made a new addition to Exeter's corps of teachers in Miss Nora P. O'Brien of Laneyville, Mass. Miss O'Brien will have charge of the first and second grades of the new Winter street school. Miss Mary Webster will have the third and Miss Josephine P. Dow the fourth and fourth grades.

Through Senator Albert E. Wetherell 2000 brook trout have been placed in various brooks in Exeter. The trout are yearlings and they are from a United States hatchery at Nashua. They arrived Saturday afternoon.

There will be a team shoot on the grounds of the Exeter Sportsmen's club Saturday, between teams of Portsmouth, Exeter and Dover. Each team will be composed of five men. The shooting will begin in the morning as soon as the visitors arrive and will continue all day. Dinner will be served on the grounds.

The Women's Guild of Christ church will hold their annual sale of fancy articles at the Casino, Rye beach, on Wednesday.

In police court this morning Mabel Nickert was sentenced to thirty days at Brentwood for drunkenness. Officer Dwyer arrested her Saturday.

EXETER'S UP-TO-DATE HOTEL.

Squamscott House Under Management of N. S. Willey One of Best Hostleries in This Section.

One of the most beautiful sections of this state is to be laid open to the public next Saturday, when the direct trolley line from Portsmouth to Exeter will be opened and the first cars run over the new route.

N. S. Willey, proprietor of the Squamscott House, the only hotel in Exeter, has made special efforts to provide for the accommodation of guests who journey from this city to the pretty little academy town, eightmiling.

The little town of Exeter boasts of having one of the most up-to-date hotels in this state.

N. S. Willey, the proprietor, is a man who has spent years at the business and is one who fully understands it. Personally sociable and agreeable, he makes special efforts for the accommodation of his guests and all are well taken care of.

The Squamscott House, named after the beautiful Squamscott river, which runs through the town, is located at the corner of Front and Court streets. It is a large four story brick building, facing on Front street and has accommodations for over one hundred guests.

The large airy bedrooms have been fully equipped with steam heat and gas and all modern improvements. The table service is probably what has made the Squamscott House famous and is acknowledged to be the best service in Rockingham county. Special attractions are afforded to commercial and traveling men in the nicely fitted up correspondence room, the barber shop, telegraph service, cigar case, etc., while a beautifully decorated and furnished parlor affords luxurious accommodations for the ladies. A large piazza runs along the front of the hotel and is equipped with comfortable arm chairs and rockers.

Mr. Willey is making special efforts in the culinary department for the accommodation of those who travel to the town and wish only meals. He will also furnish special suppers for travelling parties and excursionists who come to his hotel during the winter and summer.

Items Of Interest In Busy Shops Across The River.

Exciting Race Between Two Boats Manned By Workmen.

Saturday will be pay day for mechanics and laborers.

Many of the workmen visit Henderson's point daily at noon.

Another new telephone was put in the marine barracks on Monday.

All the ships now in commission have received additions to their crews.

No admittance signs now appear on the U. S. S. Reina Mercedes and Detroit.

Thomas Brown of Quincy, Mass., has reported for duty in the shipfitting force.

Henry J. Moran formerly of the construction brass room has gone to Vermont.

Electrician Johnson of the U. S. S. Columbia at New York, has reported for duty on the U. S. S. Vixen.

Daniel McIntire, formerly fireman on the Boston and Maine railroad, has been called in the shipfitting crew.

Two cars of hoisting gear have arrived for the contractors who are doing the work on Henderson's point.

James Hurley who had a finger and thumb cut by an axe in the steam engineering brass foundry has returned to work.

Several carloads of lumber have arrived for the Baltimore Machine company, which will install elevators in the general store building.

Electrician Huber of the U. S. S. Vixen who has been sick at the hospital, has been discharged and reported for duty aboard his ship.

All pumps and other machinery taken out of the U. S. S. Vixen for repairs were put back in place aboard the ship by the riggers' crew on Monday.

The handsome cat "Pete" which has been a favorite at the marine barracks for nearly sixteen years has been killed. He will be greatly missed by the men stationed there, who were deeply attached to the animal.

The crew of one of the small ships at the yard are enjoying the laugh on one of the crew who lost flesh trying to row a boat from the dock with the anchor dragging on bottom a few days ago. He acknowledged the hard pull also the joke.

Some of the stone cutters on the new dry dock have been loaned by the firm doing the work to the yard where they are engaged in cutting away the granite foundation of the general store building, where the elevator will take freight from the cars.

The "country club" held a large and interesting session on Monday, at noon, at which a popular G. A. R. man informed the members that he had seen five hundred and twenty-five hands at one time. For a few minutes breath was scarce and the other living representatives of George Washington "proceeded to the extreme rear and were seated."

Many of the electrical crew in the yards and docks were exceedingly sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Joseph Burns, wife of Joseph Burns of the Buckeye Engine company at Salem, Ohio. Mr. Burns is installing engineer for this company and became well liked while at the yard last winter, at which time the handsome engines of the electric light plant were put in under his supervision.

The docking of the ships Yankton and Eagle in succession was carried out without a hitch of any kind. It was the first work of this kind under Naval Constructor Rock at this yard.

Constructor Rock was assisted by Assistant Constructor Du Bois. The ships went in and came out of the dock as easy as on the first day they ever saw water and the officers and men in charge deserve great credit for the manner in which the ships were handled.

Doller Maker Carleton of the U. S. S. Vixen and Mrs. Carleton, who has lately arrived here, have taken rooms in this city. Mr. Carleton has a great liking for this station and met many old friends whom he worked with some years ago in different plants about New England. His brother is also well known in this city having played several positions with the Cambridge Rds baseball club against the Portsmouth Athletic club team, in the days when the two teams used to have many a hot game on the diamond in this city.

The U. S. S. tugs Neznescoot and Sioux are being fitted out and equipped at the navy yard with rations for duty in connection with the official trial of the U. S. S. battleship Maine. Lieut. L. McNamee, U. S. N., will be in charge of the Neznescoot and Lieut. William R. Cushman, U. S. N., of the Vixen, will be in command of the Sioux. The tugs will leave for Boston on August 21, and from there will go over the course marked out for the Maine, taking soundings, tide currents, etc., and may be used as stake boats on the day of the trial. The tugs will be absent about ten days.

One of the best boat races that has ever taken place on the river between the workmen or any other crews, came off on Saturday afternoon, between two crews from the south end. It was hard to say who would be the winners until the shore was reached, when a great cheer went up for the winning boat from the crew of the boats not in the race. The victors came across on Monday with their heads high, while from the stern of the boat was waving a large blue flag with the words "Cock" o' the walk" in the centre. The bow was adorned with a large broom. They received a great send off from the men on the steamers and small boats. Among the crew were many old timers who showed some of the young blood that they had not forgot the use of an oar. Thomas Brooks a veteran at the business furnished a telling stroke and John Sam Tuckerman held his own in the bow. The defeated crew claims that things would have been otherwise if the race had been for a mile or two. It now looks as if we were to have more of it.

ISLES OF SHOALS.

Isles of Shoals, August 18.—The dog fish have made life miserable for the fishermen this week, and the catches by the guests have been small, with no records. The mackerel have been schooling about the islands, and this has furnished rare sport, and the fleet of seiners gave a practical illustration of how several thousand barrels of mackerel should be caught. Among the seiners were two steamers, one owned by Capt. Sol Jacobs of Gloucester, well known on the islands.

This has been yacht week here, for a large number of the New York fleet have been lying in the roads every night. Every year after their annual cruise a large number of the fleet visit the ports along the coast, stopping at the Shoals going and coming.

There has been a very large transient trade this week. On Sunday last two excursion steamers were at the island with nearly 1000 people.

The variable weather of this summer has enabled the many artists at the hotels to get some very excellent pictures.

The arrivals at the Applecore were: Miss C. R. Braham, Newton; George H. Braham, Isabel Florence, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Ring, Miss Carrie L. Ring, Springfield; Mrs. J. L. Mitchell, Walpole, N. H.; A. H. Brainard and wife, South Orange, N. J.; Miss Ruth Brainard, Mrs. F. W. Judd, Cleveland; Mrs. L. B. Bryant, Miss L. F. Ward, Boston; Eugene R. Knapp Mrs. Knapp, William H. Bent, Miss Helen Stearns, C. W. Bartlett, J. E. Bartlett, E. M. Johnson, Miss E. E. Wilbur, Boston; V. E. Carpenter, Fanny B. Carpenter, Clara L. Carpenter, West Newton; George M. Bartol, Miss Bartol, Lancaster; A. T. Brown, Miss Elizabeth Brown, W. H. Dawson, J. B. Billings, H. L. Salls, F. L. Eames, Miss J. T. Spalding, Henry Austin Clapp, Mrs. Henry A. Clapp, Louis Lechrop, Boston; O. F. Joslin, Oxford; G. H. Stedman, Belmont; F. H. Richardson, Boston; Miss W. Bigelow, Clinton; Louis D. Humphrey, Cambridge; Archibald Park and wife, Melway; Palmer A. Woodward and wife, Mrs. Abby Cotton, Franklin; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. David, Somerville; George Choate, J. Warren Richardson, J. M. Gausensig, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Fuller, Lancaster; N. Jealous, Miss A. M. Jealous, Winchester; Mrs. Richard Ward Greene, Worcester.

HAMPTON BEACH.

The Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury employes Relief association will hold their annual ball in Convention hall, Friday evening, August 29.

Wallace D. Lovell gave a trolley ride to the poor children of Exeter last Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. W. H. C. Follansby prepared the list of children who could not afford such an outing, and Mr. Lovell not only treated them to the trip, but provided them with a lunch and pleasant entertainment.

Contrary to their decision of last year, Aleppo Temple, Order of the Mystic Shrine, will visit the beach again this year, the last two days of this month and the first of September. Headquarters will be, as on the two former occasions, at the Ocean House.

Haverhill and Lawrence lodges, American Benefit society, will hold an outing here Wednesday.

The Baptist Sunday school of Seabrook will hold a picnic at the beach today.

Attorney General Eastman and W. H. C. Follansby, treasurer of Rockingham county, with their families, are occupying their cottages at Boat's Head.

United States District Attorney C. J. Hamblett and Mrs. Hamblett of Nashua, have been enjoying a few days at the Pelham.

Daily Creamery

I know of a better maker not far from Waterloo who had an experience he won't soon forget, says H. C. Altrage, a prominent Iowa dairyman. He had been churning at a temperature of 56 degrees, and at this temperature his butter had a good body. But on a recent morning after butter had come and he had opened the churn he was horrified to find a mass of yellow slop. After drawing off the butter, milk and washing twice with cold spring water and working it very slowly he was hardly able to get it out of the churn. Next morning he decided to churn cold enough. He tried 52 degrees, and it was two hours before butter came. There were somewhat better results, but not what he thought they ought to be. He began wondering what to do next. Milk was coming in in fine shape, the weather being quite cool, making it necessary to heat the milk before separating, but he determined to try not heating, letting it go through just as it came in at a temperature of about 68 degrees, and used more starter to develop enough acid. At 4 o'clock he cooled it down to 52 degrees and butter came at 56 degrees in fine shape.

Soft Butter Contains Most Water.

In experiments at the Iowa station the water content of butter as influenced by the size of the granules and the temperature of the butter during working was studied. In each of a number of comparative tests cream was ripened, cooled and divided into two equal lots, both of which were churned under uniform conditions and were otherwise treated alike, except that one lot was washed with cold water and the other with comparatively warm water. In three of the comparisons where the granules were of the same size an average difference of about 25 degrees F. in the temperature of the wash water made a difference of about 2 1/2 per cent in the water content of the butter. The softer butter resulting from the use of the warmer water in washing contained in every case the most water. In one of the tests washing coarse granular butter with water at 45 degrees was compared with washing fine granular butter with water at 80 degrees. The percentage of water in the butter made in the two ways was respectively 14.07 and 17.50.

Granulated Butter.

The great secret in making granulated butter is when you begin to churn do not have the cream warmer than 62 degrees in cold weather and 60 degrees in warm weather. If the cream is cold, set it in a pail of hot water, but under no circumstances pour hot water into the cream. It will of course take longer to churn granulated butter. When you have finished churning, the butter will look just like shot; then draw off your buttermilk and wash the butter in the churn with several waters, so as to get the buttermilk all out. If you wish to keep the butter granulated, after washing it put it into a jar and cover it with a strong brine. But if you want to get it ready for market, salt and work it over and let it set for an hour, then work all the brine out and pack in a crock.—Pearl Sterling in Orange Judd Farmer.

Mary Marshall's Daughter.

Dr. J. P. Welsh has at his stock farm near Orangeville, Pa., a cow that promises to become one of the most valuable in the country. Although only three years old, this cow, Mary Marshall V., No. 11,814, has already outdone the record of her mother, Mary Marshall, who won the Pan-American prize in the butter making contest of six months.

The latter, eleven years old, made 25 1/4 pounds, and after deducting cost of feed showed a net profit of $31.01. Mary Marshall V. gave 1,082 1/2 pounds of milk during the month of May, an unprecedented record.

Secretary Knight's Caution.

Secretary Knight of the National Dairy union has issued a small pamphlet giving a brief history of the efforts made to secure the passage of the oleomargarine law, and in connection therewith a synopsis of the law and its full text. On the last page of the pamphlet appears the following timely caution: "Have no confidence in statements you read in the daily and weekly newspapers in relation to the oleomargarine law or its effects or anything connected therewith. Oleomargarine makers and dealers have spent thousands of dollars with various newspapers to secure publication and circulation of misleading reports calculated to shake confidence in the new law. In the hundreds of newspaper reports which have been printed in relation to this measure not one in a hundred has had a single grain of accuracy in it. It is a subject which few not acquainted with the dairy business understand, and in their effort to handle it the majority of newspapers have published ridiculous misstatements, which have led to much confusion in the minds of the people."

Can't Mix the Product.

Commissioner Yerkes of the Internal Revenue bureau has settled the contested question as to whether butter or any other ingredients artificially colored may be used in the manufacture of oleomargarine without increasing the tax from one-quarter of a cent to 19 cents a pound by issuing a regulation which holds in effect that no artificial coloring matter whatever can be used in any way in the manufacture of oleomargarine without increasing the tax as stated.

The Author's Power.

Everybody knows that in a novel a commonplace person may be made interesting by a deliberate, patient exposition of his various traits precisely as we can learn to like very uninteresting persons in real life if circumstances place them day after day at our elbows. Who of us would not grow impatient with the early chapters of "The Newcomes" for instance, or "The Antiquary" if it were not for our faith that Thackeray and Scott know their business and that every one of these commonplace people will contribute something in the end to the total effect? And even when the gradual development of character rather than the mere portrayal of character is the theme of a novelist, as so frequently with George Eliot, how colorless may be the personality at the outset, how narrow the range of thought and experience portrayed? Yet in George Eliot's own words "these commonplace people have a conscience and have felt the subtle promptings to do the painful right." They take on dignity from their moral struggle, whether the struggle ends in victory or defeat. By an infinite number of subtle touches they are made to grow and change before our eyes like living, fascinating things.—Atlantic.

How Glaciers Are Formed.

The joint cause of glaciers is precipitation and cold. A low temperature alone can do nothing without moisture, and this fact quickly disposes of the popular notion that glaciers invariably exist in cold countries. Tibet, for instance, and some parts of North America are destitute of ice springs, though eternal cold may be said to reign supreme in those parts. Imagine for a moment the higher mountainous clear of snow and ice and then watch for the formation of a glacier.

Snow falls and fills up all the valleys and gullies, avalanches descend from the higher parts and a great accumulation gathers in all hollows. By constant repetition of snowfalls (always provided a greater quantity is deposited than can be melted by the sun's rays and by the natural warmth of the earth's crust) great pressure is put upon the lower portions by the superincumbent accumulation, and aided by the infiltration of water and refreezing, a large body of ice is formed, which at once begins to move down the valleys containing it.

Whistler at West Point.

Among the famous men who were for a brief term cadets at West Point were Edgar A. Poe, the poet; Matt H. Carpenter, the eminent lawyer and statesman of Wisconsin, and James MacNeill Whistler, the celebrated painter. Whistler remained three years at the academy. The Army and Navy Journal gives the following curious story why he did not pass his examination:

"The subject given him in chemistry to discuss before the academic board was 'silica,' which constitutes 8 per cent of the solid matter of our earth. Whistler, it was said, in perfect innocence of the subject, but with his characteristically charming manner, described silica as an 'elastic gas, or a spongylike gas.' The young ladies in the audience smiled approval, but the stern academic board dispensed with Whistler's further valuable services at the Military academy."

Fifth Century Authors.

Hierophilus, one of the Alexandrian school, wrote a treatise on the practice of medicine, on obstetrics, on the eye and on the pulse, which he correctly referred to the movements of the heart. He was aware of the existence of the lactents and of their anatomical relations to the mesenteric glands. Erastastrius—his colleague and a pupil of Theophrastus and (Chrysippus)—was aware of the nature of the heart and its connection with the veins and arteries, but he fell into the error that the veins were for the conveyance of air and the arteries for that of blood. Otherwise he anticipated Harvey's great discovery. He knew also that there were two kinds of nerves—those of motion and those of sensation.

The Flag at Half Mast.

The custom of showing the flag at half mast originated from the way at sea of showing the pre-eminence one ship had over the other in time of warfare. The vanquished always had to lower its flag, while the victor's would be raised as high as possible in exultation. To lower a flag is an act of submission or of tokens respect to a superior or is a signal of distress. The hoisting of a flag half mast high came to be used, therefore, as a sign of mourning and respect.

Quite Romantic.

IN THE DAIRY

The scarcity of low grade butter is a constant topic for remark in all butter markets. The indications are that this will be a somewhat permanent feature, and it must be taken into account in all our plans, says Creamery Journal. Low grade butter is made by the poorest class of dairymen. It pays the least, and the makers of it are the soonest discouraged and driven out of business. Thousands of steer calf farmers have been forced to close out a living when beef ruled low by milking the cows, and now that beef is high they have quit. They never were in the business as a business, but as a passing necessity.

And the broadening of the creamery industry and the introduction of farm separators have opened up a market for great quantities of cream which before was churned into poor butter at home and is now made into presentable commercial butter in the creameries. The general output of creamery butter is not greater, but the shrinkage is greater relatively in farm butter, and last, but not least, is the establishment of process factories. Much poor butter is processed before it gets to the great butter centers, so the usual butter markets are short in this line.

On this account speculators have to keep a weather eye on the cheaper grades, and the speculative demand always cuts some figure in making the prices. A general scarcity holds up all grades, and a surplus of the lower grade glut the market and switches consumption away from the better grade by bargain counter prices on the overstocked grade. Creameries and process factories will largely control the price of all butter from this time onward, and particularly so if the oleo crowd can be held to a legitimate business.

On High Priced Land.

Dairying and truck farming are about the only classes of farming that can be successfully conducted on the high priced lands in many sections, says an exchange. We do not often find the owner or renter of land valued at $100 or $150 per acre depending on corn, hay or beef for his income, but we find the dairyman doing business on land valued at these high prices. If the dairyman can make a profit on land so high priced that the beef man cannot do business, how much more profitable would it be on land so low in price that the beef man can afford to farm it!

Sugar Beet Pulp For Cows.

A publication of the department of agriculture says: Professor Thomas Shaw expresses his belief that sugar beet pulp can be fed more advantageously to cattle and sheep than being fattened than to dairy cows. The New York Cornell experiment station, however, found that this material gave good results with milk cows, the dry matter (solids) in it being about equal in value to that in corn silage. German experiments with beet pulp for cows have also given good results, the flow of milk being maintained in a satisfactory manner. Some Danish experiments have shown that as compared with mangels the butter produced on sugar beet pulp was about equal in quality and kept fully as well. Where large quantities of the pulp were fed the cream required to be churned a few minutes longer.

Nebraska's Dairy Business.

A report from Lincoln, Neb., states that one creamery company in that city paid to farmers $140,000 for butter fat during the month of June, and about $400,000 was paid for butter fat by the various creameries in the state. The dairy business of Nebraska is growing very rapidly, and the increase is attributed chiefly to the use of hand separators on the farms.

Titled Milkmen.

The milk trade attracts aristocrats. Lord Rayleigh is a milkman and owns one of the finest businesses in the home counties, says the London Express. Every morning special trains loaded with cans of milk from his dairy leave the station at Hatfield Peverel for London. He owns a herd of over 1,000 cows. The late Lord Vernon had a large dairy farm at Sudbury Hall, near Derby, and carried on an extensive business. The late Lord Hampden started and maintained a large establishment of this sort at Glynde, which was known as the "Creameries" and proved highly successful. Not long ago a Mr. Dormer, nephew of Lord Dormer, is said to have joined the milk trade.

And the Cow Can't Testify.

A dispatch from Goshen, N. Y., says: "In the stomach of a cow killed at Samuel Sylvester's farm the butcher found a necklace of gold medallions lost last summer by Kathryn Lamson, a niece of Mr. Sylvester. After a merry laydown came home one summer night she missed the necklace, and Andy Jensen, the hired man, was accused of stealing it and was discharged. Land of Goshen, what a story!"—Dairy and Creamery.

New Sampling Instruments.

Professor Oscar Erb, instructor in dairy husbandry in the Illinois College of Agriculture, has invented two implements for sampling butter and cheese, by the use of which a uniform sample of those products may be quickly obtained and transferred into a Babcock test bottle in proper condition without an excessive loss of moisture. The implements have been tried and found to work satisfactorily.

A Lucky Meeting.

Some years ago a young London solicitor, in order to win the girl of his choice, carried out a task which all but those of unusual courage would have shirked. The lady rejected his attentions on the ground that she would only marry the man who undertook to find her brother, who had left home some years previously, and restore him to her mother.

As the runaway had been last heard of in a South American copper mine, the solicitor had no important clues to aid him in his work. Nevertheless, pocketing a photograph, he gave up his business and set out only to return to England in despair when two years were over and he had come to the end of his resources without success. But just as he was leaving a London terminus a man passed him in the street who bore a small resemblance to the photograph, and he inquired his name. Judge of his astonishment when the stranger replied that he was the individual in question, and the reunion of the family was followed shortly afterward by the admittance of the solicitor as a fully qualified member.

Freaks of Language.

A peculiar kind of blundering known as "folk etymology" is responsible for some of the queerest freaks of language. An easy example will make this clear, says Harper's Magazine. Our American word "carryall" for a kind of vehicle is not a compound of "carry" and "all," but a slight distortion of the French "carriole," a diminutive car. The change was made in obedience to the universal tendency to assimilate the unknown to the known, to make words mean something by associating them with others which they resemble in sound. Often there is no etymological relation between the words associated, as when sparrow grass is made out of asparagus. This particular corruption was once in such good colloquial use that Walker, the lexicographer, wrote, "Sparrowgrass is so general that asparagus has an air of stiffness and pedantry."

A Precept Established.

A Methodist clergyman in the upper portion of the city encountered a Celt one recent rainy Sunday standing close to the wall of the church in an effort to utilize the coping as a shield from the storm.

"Come inside," said the clergyman cheerily. "You'll be out of the wet, and you can have a seat while you're waiting for it to clear."

"No, thank yez," said the Celt emphatically. "O'if I got into th' house uv me I'd be in!"

"Well, that's rather harsh," answered the clergyman. "When our Lord was on earth, did he not go among his enemies?"

"Yis; he did that," assented the Celt with growing warmth, "and yez didn't do a 'ting to him, ayther?"—Philadelphia Times.

A Story of Charles Reade.

Charles Matthews was fond of telling a story of Charles Reade when the curtain fell at the old Queen's theater in London on a pronounced failure called "A White Lie." There was no shadow of a call for the author. The curtain divided the audience from the author, who stood on the stage shaking his fist at the invisible foe, still smiling blandly and in mellifluous accents saying: "Infernal idiots! When shall I teach you to respect Charles Reade?"—London Telegraph.

Very Polite.

"Here's an account of a man," said Mrs. Gadsby, "who hasn't spoken a word to his wife in three years."

"That's rather a rigid adherence to one of the rules of politeness," said Gadsby.

"Rules of politeness?" said Mrs. Gadsby in a scornful tone.

"Yes; never interrupt a lady when she is talking."

The Musk Ox.

In systematic zoology the place accorded to the musk ox is intermediate between those of the sheep (ovis) and the ox (bos), and for its special accommodation a new genus has been created, "ovibos." Most writers notice its resemblance in many ways to the buffalo or bison, and it undoubtedly has much affinity with this species.

Counter Irritant.

"Still bothered by that amateur corn player next door?"

"No, I bought a dog."

"What had that to do with it?"

"Well, this was one of those dogs that howl frightfully every time they hear any sort of music."—Exchange.

Politeness in Mexico.

Gentlemen in Mexico put hats whenever they see each other, they shake hands whenever they meet and part, they do not consider it had form to stand in line on the sidewalks and stare at the ladies, they wear their hats in a theater until the curtain rises, and, moreover, they put them on between the acts and stand up to look at the audience, and after a separation they embrace and pat each other on the back if they happen to be intimate friends.

They smoke everywhere, even in some theaters. They never carry bundles in the street, but each is attended by a servant, who carries even the smallest package. They are wonderfully courteous to each other, and two friends will spend a good deal of time in deciding which shall enter a room or carriage first.

Finally, every Mexican gentleman when strolling on a street insists on giving the inside of the walk to his companion as a mark of politeness. This point is quickly decided if there is a difference in station or age, but if there is not, and the two friends go down a street and cross often so that the relative positions are changed, a new discussion as to which shall occupy the inside becomes necessary at every corner.

A Child Bishop.

A curious custom formerly prevailing on St. Nicholas day was the election of a boy to maintain the state and authority of a bishop, for which purpose he was clothed in rich episcopal robes and wore a mitre. Dean Colet, in the statutes of St. Paul's school, expressly ordains that "his scholars should every Childermas (Innocents) day, come to Paul's church and bear the childe bishop's sermon, and after be at the hygh masse and each of them offer a penny to the childe bishop." On Nov. 13, 1554, the bishop of London ordered that all the churches in his diocese should elect boy bishops to take part in processions in the streets of the metropolis. With the rise of Protestantism this election was suppressed, but the Eton Montem was a continuance under another form. The "boy preacher" was known in England before he came from America.—London Chronicle.

The Quality of Charity.

There probably never was a man or woman who did not occasionally need the charity of those with whom they came in contact, and on hearing a story relating to the silliness or recklessness of some one it is surprising that they do not hope, for the honor of their race, that it is not true, or at least treat it with charitable silence, as they hope to be treated. There never was a great man who paid much attention to gossip; there never was a woman distinguished above her sisters for goodness, who was not charitable. You might as well amuse yourself by remarking the ugliness of people as to amuse yourself by remarking their faults and transgressions. We are all ugly enough, heaven knows, and we all have too many faults to warrant us in being surprised at faults in others.—Atchison Globe.

Rapid Army Mobilization.

The finest example of rapid organization of an army was certainly the mobilization of the German army in 1870. On July 17 in that year the famous telegram, the shortest and most momentous ever dispatched, "Krieg Mobil," went forth from the headquarters at Berlin, and within a fortnight an army of 500,000 men, fully uniformed, equipped and provided with commissariat, was on its way to the French frontier. Of course it must be remembered that all these men had been previously warned and that all had been through their period of military training.—London Answers.

Gainsborough and His Carrier.

One of the earliest members of the Royal academy, it was Gainsborough's custom to have his pictures conveyed to the metropolis by a prosperous London carrier, a Mr. Wiltshire of Shock-erwick, near Bath. This man refused to accept payment on the ground that he loved pictures too well. He was not, however, allowed to go unrewarded, for Gainsborough presented him with six of his best works, and some idea of their ultimate value may be gained from the fact that when at length they were sold the National gallery secured two, "The Parish Clerk of Bradford-on-Avon," for 500 guineas, and "The Harvest Wagon," for £2,500, these prices being considered low. Later "The Sisters" from another gallery realized close upon £10,000.

Donkeys in Mexico.

There are two classes of donkeys in Mexico—one with four feet and the other with two. Each is a kind of competitor of the other. Sometimes they are partners. They are both burdens of burdens and the subjects of brutality. Everywhere you see the donkey loaded down with sacks of ore, baskets of dirt, cans of milk, sacks of water, and you find his driver very often loaded in the same way. These combinations sometimes go two by two, and sometimes there will be a band of ten to fifty thus loaded, coming down the mountains with ore, charcoal or wood, corn or whatever may be needed in the villages or cities. It is indeed a medieval life in middle and southern Mexico.

OBEYING THE RULES.

That Was How Mayor Johnson Got His Start in the World.

The mayor of Cleveland, familiarly known as Tom Johnson, when at the age of fourteen lived in Louisville, Ky., and secured employment as an office boy at $2 a week in a foundry. His duties consisted of keeping the office clean, running errands and picking up odd scraps.

B. Du Pont, who was part owner of the foundry, saw the industrious office boy rush one day into the street, pick up a bit of iron and, returning, throw it on the scrap heap inside. When the boy re-entered the office, Mr. Du Pont said to him:

"Why did you do that, my son?"

"Why, sir," said Tom, a bit embarrassed, "there was no use wasting it. They can put it in the furnace and use it over again."

"Well, I just think I can use you, young man, in the street car business. How would you like to come at $7 a week?"

Young Johnson accepted the $5 raise with alacrity. Mr. Du Pont controlled the Fourth avenue and Walnut street lines. One barn was at Eighteenth and Walnut streets and at Fourth avenue and Main street was the drawing station. All the cars of the system had to pass there, and it was there that the money was drawn from the big clumsy boxes into which the fares were dropped.

One of the rules of the company was that as each bag of money was drawn, the drawer must carry it into the office, put it into the safe and close the door.

Mr. Du Pont was seldom at the drawing station during the day, and in time the drawers grew careless. No one had access to the room but the drawers, and knowing one another to be honest they formed the habit of carelessly throwing the bags of money on the floor and piling them all into the safe in a heap at the end of the day or when they thought Mr. Du Pont might be around.

One day the chief drawer was ill, and young Johnson, the office boy, was sent by Mr. Du Pont from Eighteenth and Walnut streets to Fourth and Main to help out. Johnson read the rules, and in drawing the bag of money from the first car he bounded up the steps to the room, opened the safe, threw in the money and slammed the door.

"What did you do that for?" demanded the bookkeeper.

"The rules say so," answered the subdrawer over his shoulder as he ran down the steps to meet another car.

The same thing was repeated a dozen times. Then the bookkeeper wheeled around and demanded:

"Don't you think I'm honest? Do you think I want to steal any of that money?"

"Dunno," answered Johnson, "but the rule says, 'Put the bag in the safe and shut the door,' and that's what I'm going to do whether you like it or not."

The bookkeeper jumped off his stool just as Mr. Du Pont stepped in.

"What's all this row about?" he asked.

"This young fool is acting as if he thought I was trying to steal your money," the bookkeeper replied.

"I was just obeying the rule, Mr. Du Pont," spoke up young Johnson. "Here it is." And he showed the president of the company the rule.

"All right, my boy," said Mr. Du Pont. "Since you obey the rules so well I'll make you chief drawer right now."

Two years later, when he was seventeen, Johnson was superintendent of the road.

More For the Money.

A gentleman, accompanied by his son, has just selected a picture representing a group of four peaches and a cut melon.

"How much?" he inquires.

"Fifty pounds."

Here the youngster whispers to his parent: "Oh, father, don't buy it. I saw a much finer one at another shop for £40."

"Yes; but how do you know it was better?"

"Why, there were at least twelve peaches, and the melon wasn't cut."

A TWILIGHT GAME.

You Mention a Thing and Count Ten For the Next Player.

It had been raining all day. It was almost dark, and the children were getting dangerously tired of each other when Miss Lambert came up into the nursery. She lighted the fire on the hearth and drew up an easy chair; then she settled back in it and looked over at Alice and smiling.

"What is it?" questioned Alice, feeling very happy all at once.

"The world is so full of a number of things, I think we should all be as happy as kings," quoted Miss Lambert. "Tell us the rest," exclaimed Alice eagerly.

"That's all," replied Miss Lambert, still smiling.

But the children, sure that something nice was coming, settled themselves, each on an arm of Miss Lambert's chair, and waited.

"Well, we'll play a game," said Miss Lambert. "I'll mention one of the 'things' and then commence to count ten. Before I have finished Alice must mention one, and so we'll go round and round. The one who fails to think of a thing (a beautiful thing, of course) must pay a forfeit. She must learn Mr. Stevenson's 'Nest Eggs' and recite it Sunday morning at breakfast. Now I'll begin: A road winding through the woods; one, two, three, four—"

"Red lilies growing along the road," shouted Alice; "one, two, three, four, five, six—"

"Candy! Pink and white twisted sticks," said Elizabeth solemnly.

"Count, dear," reminded Miss Lambert, for Elizabeth had forgotten present duties.

"One, two, three—"

"An old farmhouse with children inside and an apple orchard near; one, two—"

"A nice big fire," cried Alice, stretching her feet out toward the blaze. "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven—"

"Kittens," said Elizabeth, gazing lovingly at a stuffed cat lying upside down on the hearth.

"Aren't you going to count?" asked Miss Lambert.

"One, two, three," commenced Elizabeth.

"A field of grass with the wind sweeping over it; one, two, three, four—"

"A stone wall," shouted Alice, "with all the things growing side of it—wild roses, hardback, grapevines; one, two, three, four, five—"

"Babies," said Elizabeth, beginning at once to think up for next time and forgetting to count, as usual.

"Mamas that sing softly to the babies," said Miss Lambert, following Elizabeth's lead.

"Uncles that tell stories," shouted Alice, springing into the arms of a big man who suddenly appeared in the doorway.

"Oh, Uncle Jack, you play, too!" cried both the children at once, and then such fun as followed!

Uncle Jack had to pay a forfeit because he couldn't think quickly enough, and then after that he thought of lots of jolly things—gulls' eggs and full rigged ships and big waves that dash over boats and the American flag and everything.—Outlook.

His First Taste of Discipline.

Admiral Joubert, probably one of the jolliest seadogs our navy ever knew, once told this amusing story of his early days as a cadet:

"I was a sociable youngster," he says, "and when I went to my first assignment, the Independence, and saw the stars and stripes floating over it I remembered my mother had taught me that my first duty was to the flag, so I attempted some conversation on this line with the executive officer who had received me when I came on board and who was one of the strictest disciplinarians in the navy of that day.

"'Silence, sir!' he roared at my first question, his face red with anger. 'Silence, sir! Who gave you permission to speak? Let me hear only six words from you, sir, while you are on this ship—'port,' 'starboard,' 'yes, sir,' and 'no, sir.'"

"And this was my first discipline in the navy."

Crowns by Wholesale.

It is told of one of the ancient kings of Egypt that his coronation procession occupied a whole day in passing through the city of Alexandria and that 3,200 crowns of gold were carried by the servants. One crown was three feet in height and twenty-four feet in circumference. There were also carried in the procession sixty-four suits of golden armor, two boots of gold four and a half feet in length, twelve golden basins, ten large vases of perfumes for the baths, twelve ewers, fifty dishes and a large number of tables—all of gold. Twenty-three of the 3,200 crowns were valued at $384,400, and it is not surprising that the procession was guarded by 90,000 soldiers.—St. James Gazette.

London's Sewer Hunters.

The London sewer hunter before commencing operations provides himself with a bullseye lantern, a canvas apron and a pole some seven or eight feet in length, having an iron attachment at one end and somewhat in the shape of a hoe. For greater convenience the lantern is invariably fixed to the right shoulder, so that when walking the light is thrown ahead and when stooping its rays shine directly to their feet. Thus accoutered they walk slowly along through the mud, feeling with their naked feet for anything unusual, at the same time, raking the accumulation from the walls and picking from the crevices any article they see.

Nothing is allowed to escape them, no matter what its value, provided it is not valuable. Old iron, pieces of rope, bones, current coin of the realm and articles of plate and jewelry—all is good fish which comes to the hunter's net.—Chambers' Journal.

The English Navy.

In the earliest times of the British navy there was practically no distinction between the merchantman and the man-of-war. In the rare times of peace men-of-war traded as merchantmen, while merchantmen always went armed. Thus in time of war the trader became the warship and vice versa. From the time of the conquest and probably earlier down to the days of Elizabeth this was the ordinary practice. Elizabeth hired out ships of the navy for all sorts of purposes, from piracy to slave trading, taking her share of the profits when the venture was successful and disclaiming all responsibility when it wasn't.

Henry III., who may be described as the originator of the navy as a special fighting force, hired out the ships specially built for the navy in times of peace and even allowed them to be taken away from their appointed stations provided that the hirers deposited due security for the return of the ships with their tackle and all equipment in a proper state of efficiency. The practice ceased after the repulse of the Spanish armada, when the fighting ship, as such, became distinct from the trader.—London Globe.

Meanings of the Word "Stove."

The word "stove," as applied to a heater for a room, seems to be of about the same age as the article to which the name is now applied, for while the word as a name had an existence in early English it was used in a different sense.

Both Lord Bacon and Woodward used it as referring to a house or room artificially warmed and particularly a hothouse for plants. Bacon also used the word as a verb in the way of keeping warm in a house or room, as "to stove orange trees and myrtles," to quote from his writings. Pops used the verb in a nautical sense, as heating for the purpose of making pliable, as "stove bolt ropes."

But all these definitions are obsolete now, such disease dating from the time when Dr. Franklin made his discoveries and applications. The French word "etuve," it may be added, describes a hothouse or bathing room, and hence is parallel in meaning with the early English word.

Pickpockets and Pins.

Artful as the ways of the "Heathen Chinese" are the dodges of the expert picker of pockets. The other night a young lady who had been to the theater was getting on to a tram car, and, knowing the possibilities opened up to the light fingered gentry by a crowd, she kept her hand in her pocket and grasped her purse firmly. Suddenly she felt a sharp prick as from a pin on her hand and, acting on the impulse, let go her hold of the purse and snatched her hand out, almost as quickly returning it, but she was too late. In the few seconds that had elapsed another hand had been there, and the purse was gone.

Mollifying.

"I am afraid, Bobby," said his mother, "that when I tell your father what a naughty boy you've been he will punish you severely."

"Have you got to tell him?" asked Bobby earnestly.

"Oh, yes, I shall tell him immediately after dinner."

The look of concern on Bobby's face deepened.

"Well, mother," said he, "give him a better dinner than usual. You might do that much for me."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Short Cut to Sleep.

"Doctor," said he, "I'm a victim of insomnia. I can't sleep if there's the least noise, such as a cat on the garden wall, for instance."

"This powder will be effective," replied the physician, after compounding a prescription.

"When do I take it, doctor?"

"You don't take it. Give it to the cat in a little milk."—Family Doctor.

Putting Him Off.

The young man was happy until he discovered the next day that his adored one's father had been dead several years.

Be Slow to Believe It.

There is no better test of purity and true goodness than reluctance to think evil of one's neighbor and absolute incapacity to believe an evil report about good men except upon the most trustworthy testimony. Alas, that this large and lovely charity is so rare! But it is only with those who possess this charity that men accused of sins against society have an equal chance with those accused, under the forms of law, of crime. Every man brought to trial for crime is presumed to be innocent until he is proved to be guilty, but with the world at large every man slandered is presumed to be guilty until he proves himself to be innocent, and even then it takes the liberty of doubting the testimony. Every man who rejoices in scandal thereby advertises the fact of his own unworthiness, and every man who is pained by it and refuses to be impressed by it unconsciously reveals his own purity.

Asking Too Much.

"Some people," remarked the druggist to his clerk, "are frightfully unreasonable."

"Is the man who just left an example?"

"Yes. He wanted me to give him something to cure a cold."

"That's very simple."

"Yes, but he wanted me to give him a guarantee that the medicine wouldn't make him feel worse than the cold did."—Washington Star.

The Whole Thing.

"Bixby seems to think he's the whole thing as an expert authority on sporting matters."

"Yes; he appears to regard himself as pretty nearly big enough to wear golf links to fasten his shirt cuffs."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

When we deserve it, we don't mind abuse. It makes us careful. But the trouble is we never agree with our critics as to when we deserve it.—Athenian Globe.

Playful Monkeys.

Apes and gorillas are usually vicious and resentful and less addicted to playful tricks than the common monkey. Indeed the monkey, as we all know, is a trickster both in his wild and domestic state. In their native forests they spend hours in subjugating from the branches of trees, suspended by their tails, and clattering and grinning with evident signs of delight. Humboldt mentions seeing over a hundred so employed in a South American forest.

Golf to Blame For Her Loneliness.

A fisherman noticed a lonely lady sitting on a rock at North Berwick knitting, and remarked to his companion: "That's a lonesome looking woman. She sits on that rock all day eye knitting, she never speaks to a living soul; an odd maid, I suppose."

"Auld maid?" replied the other. "No her; I ken her find. Her man's a gowfer!"—Edinburgh Dispatch.

White Animals Among the Japanese.

A white fox is often mentioned in the Japanese fables, and a white serpent appears in their pictures of Benteen, the goddess of fortune. Among the Japanese, as among the ancient Greeks and Scythians, white horses were dedicated to the gods and are still attached to the larger temples of the country. The milk and butter of white cows were formerly prized as a medicine.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It in Ports-mouth.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit and they cannot be blamed for so many in the past have been humbugged. The experience of hundreds of Portsmouth residents expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation.

Mr. Arlon A. Ballou, of 31 Maplewood avenue, says:—"I had something wrong with my kidneys for eight months, and the pain and annoyance kept increasing instead of diminishing. I got so bad that I could not attend to my ordinary occupation, and had to knock off. In my back and over my kidneys there was a constant pain and any ordinary movement caused sharp twinges to shoot through my loins. During these attacks when my back was particularly bad I had urinary weakness that was very embarrassing and inconvenient. I thought Doan's Kidney Pills might help me and I got a box at Philbrick's pharmacy on Congress street. I did not take more than one-half of it before I was free from the whole kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Gentlemen: In regard to your Dyspepsia Cure, I will say that I have used it in my practice for the past five years in the Tablet form, and prior to that I have used it in the E. C. form, getting it direct from Mr. Andrews when he was in Portland, Me.

I used it for some stomach, heartburn, indigestion and (water brush as called) also splitting food after eating, and distress with pain and nausea from as if a rod was in the stomach, and I find that it works very quickly, and I have no idea of ever being without it in my possession, and I can certainly say it is better than any other I have ever used.

Most respectfully,

TUESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1902.

President Schwab of the United States steel corporation—the so-called steel trust—has broken down, and is ordered to give up business entirely for a year, that he may have a chance to recover. From the published accounts he appears to be in a very bad way, with nervous prostration, and although yet a young man it is doubtful if he ever gets well. No doubt he has been envied for his vast wealth by thousands of working men who, though much older than he, are today enjoying what he would gladly pay a million or two for if it could be purchased with money—a sound mind in a healthy body.

Advices from London say that discharged soldiers of the British service in South Africa are leading the officials of the United States embassy in London a hard life. Having nothing to do, and having in some way got the idea that the United States is eager to get more soldiers for service in the Philippines than can be procured here, they apply in numbers at the embassy for enlistment, and are very much disappointed when they learn there is no chance for them in Uncle Sam's army. The American army stands much higher in the estimation of foreign powers and soldiers than it does with the anti-imperialists and a certain class of democrat editors at home.

The board of army officers appointed several months ago to make exhaustive tests and report upon the relative merits of disappearing and stationary guns for coast-defense fortifications, has finished its work and decided strongly in favor of the disappearing gun. The board's investigation has been thorough, and extended through many weeks. It involved the working of guns of various calibers and both classes, now in position in coast forts, service charges of ammunition were used, and the tests were for accuracy, rapidity of fire, endurance of mechanism under ordinary and extraordinary conditions, etc., with the result that the disappearing carriage, which has been strongly opposed by some eminent military authorities, including General Miles, has secured a strong endorsement. Work on the completion of the system of coast fortifications, which has been prosecuted very slowly during the pendency of the question of the value of the disappearing gun, will now be pushed with renewed vigor.

The Boer generals Botha, De Wet and De la Rey, by special invitation visited King Edward on board the royal yacht at Cowes, Isle of Wight on Sunday, were greeted by him with the same tact he has always displayed, were introduced by him to Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria, and afterward, at the king's suggestion, made a trip around the fleet in the yacht of the commander-in-chief. They were accompanied back to London by Earl Roberts and Lord Kitchener, and the report says "were highly pleased at their reception." This may readily be credited, and this visit of the famous Boer leaders to the British monarch, and the manner in which they have been greeted by the British people, furnish a happy augury for the future peace of the former South African republics. The Boers and Britons understand each other much better now than they did in the years after Marjuba Hill, and as integral parts of the British empire the Boer states will before many years be enjoying a degree of prosperity and genuine liberty that they could not possibly have attained as independent states surrounded on all sides by the territory of other and greater powers.

Colonel Henry Watterson's remark that he does not wish to be governor of Kentucky because he does not desire an office which money can buy is liable to get several foreign-born campers on his rhetorical trail.

CHAFFEE AGAIN.

He Will Lead Campaign Against The Moros.

Severe Measures To Be Taken Against Mindanao Insurgents.

Commander Of Famous Ninth Directed To Use Own Discretion.

Washington, August 18.—A cable dispatch has been received from General Chaffee stating that in his judgment an active campaign against the Moros in Mindanao was necessary in order to curb the opposition which has been growing against United States authority. The dispatch was considered of sufficient import to be repeated to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay.

General Chaffee has been directed to use his discretion in the matter and engage in an aggressive movement against the insurgent Moros.

Sometime before Secretary Root left Washington, the Moros came under consideration, and from a dispatch then at hand, the secretary was of the opinion that the Moros must be dealt with severely before they would respect the authority of the United States.

General Chaffee is now in Mindanao having left Manila some days ago. If the campaign should continue for some time, he will no doubt remain in the Philippines instead of leaving on September 20, as he had planned.

MAINE GOES INTO DRY DOCK.

New Battleship Being Prepared For Trial Trip.

New York, August 18.—For the purpose of putting the vessel thoroughly into shape for her forthcoming official speed trial, the battleship Maine today warped into dry dock No. 3 at the Brooklyn navy yard without mishap. The Maine is the largest ship ever placed in dry dock No. 3.

The docking is in the hands of the Cramps, and the Maine is manned by a crew provided by the same concern.

The officers at the yard expressed the opinion that the Maine would probably score an average of nineteen knots in her first hour of official work.

Several small and apparently insignificant cracks were discovered in the turret of the battleship. Some of the supposed cracks or imperfections in the turret, are one-eighth of an inch.

It is thought that the Maine will be ready in time to participate in the winter naval maneuvers in the Caribbean sea.

Capt. Meade who is a member of the board of inspection having power to accept or reject the vessel in behalf of the navy department, arrived at the yard today.

The Rice Amusement company, owners of all the productions and plays brought out during the past few years by the veteran yet versatile Ed and F. Rice, are negotiating for a elaborate production of Rice's Evangeline in London in the fall.

In this presentation Miss Kathlyn Hitchcock, the young soprano, who sprang from the chorus into the prima donna role in a single night during the run of the Show Girl in New York, will be the Evangeline, and it is expected that several of the original cast of ten years ago will be secured, notably Henry B. Dixey, Richard Golden, George Fortneque and Amelia Summerville.

OVERWHELMED.

Japanese Island Ravaged By Volcanic Eruption.

One Hundred And Fifty People Undoubtedly Killed.

Eruption Still In Progress, Accompanied By Submarine Explosions.

Yokohama, Japan, August 18.—The little island of Torishima was overwhelmed by a volcanic eruption between August 13 and 15, and all the inhabitants, numbering one hundred and fifty persons, were undoubtedly killed.

The island is covered with volcanic debris, and all the houses on it have disappeared. The eruption is still proceeding and is accompanied by submarine eruptions in the vicinity, which make it dangerous for vessels to approach the island.

Torishima is one of the chain of islands extending between Bonin Island and Hondo, the biggest island of Japan.

SCHOONERS AWAIT COAL.

Thirty-Two At Baltimore Because There Are No Charges.

Baltimore, Aug. 18.—Thirty-two schooners with a carrying capacity of nearly 75,000 tons, are in this harbor awaiting cargoes of soft coal. Some of the vessels have been tied up for nearly three weeks, and with poor prospects of soon getting away. Scarcity of rolling stock on the Baltimore and Ohio, owing to the requirements for moving grain in the West, is assigned for the shortage of coal here.

Only a few vessels are being loaded, and it will be several weeks before the schooners will be able to get away at the rate they are being supplied with coal.

DEMOCRATIC PLANS UPSET.

New Hampshire Party Not to Re- nominate Potter For Governor.

Concord, Aug. 18.—The serious illness of Dr. Frederick E. Potter of Portsmouth makes it unlikely that he will be renominated for governor.

Ex-Chief Justice Blodgett of Franklin has declared he will not become a candidate, so the field is open.

The only names now prominently mentioned are the Hon. John B. Nash of Conway and the Hon. Nathaniel E. Martin of Concord. Both have been prominent in democratic affairs. Mr. Nash having been chairman of the congress in the first district. Mr. Martin has been mayor of Concord and solicitor of Merrimack county.

ONE MAN KILLED.

Clash Between Strikers And Deputies In Mining Region.

Tamaqua, Pa., August 18.—In a clash between strikers and deputies at Nesquehoning, Carbon county, in the Panther Creek district, early this afternoon, one man was shot dead, one shot was fired, and the parties at once separated. The man who fired the shot was arrested and the town is quiet.

The mining operations in that section are those of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company.

THE NORTH ATLANTIC SQUADRON.

Gloucester, Mass., August 18.—Admiral Higginson, in command of the North Atlantic squadron, steamed southward with the gunboat Montgomery this afternoon, but returned to the fleet in about two hours. It is not known how long the vessels will remain in this section.

GARDNER DEFEATS ROOT.

Salt Lake City, Utah, August 18.—George Gardner of Lowell, Mass., tonight defeated Jack Root of Chicago, who defeated him several months ago in San Francisco, by knocking him out in the seventeenth round of a fight remarkable for speed and game play under punishment shown by both men.

Latest News Of Official Cir- cles In Washington.

Cuba May Discriminate Against Us On New Tariff.

Possibility That An Extra Session Of Congress Will Be Called.

(From our Regular Correspondent)
Washington, Aug. 16.

There is much gossip in Washington to the effect that the president will call the senate in extra session to ratify the treaty now being negotiated by Senator Gonzalez, the Cuban minister, and the officials of the state department. It is still too early to speak authoritatively on the subject, although it is known that Mr. Roosevelt regards the condition of affairs in Cuba as deplorable and the negotiation of the proposed loan of $35,000,000 as ill-advised. On the other hand, he holds that the accomplishment of mutual tariff concessions between Cuba and the United States would restore Cuban prosperity and make for the mutual welfare of the two countries. Although it is not true that during the time the Cuban bill was under consideration in congress, Mr. Roosevelt stated, as a threat, that he would call an extra session in the event that congress adjourned without action on the measure, it is true he frequently stated to his friends that he feared a condition of affairs would result from failure to act on the bill which would necessitate such an extra session. It is also true that only recently the president said to a government official he would gladly risk his chances of nomination if by so doing he could secure justice to Cuba. What his action in the event of such a situation will be, will doubtless depend largely on the sentiment which he finds to exist with the voters when he goes among them this fall.

In the general discussion occasioned by the proposed Cuban loan an important action of the Cuban senate was lost sight of. The act authorized President Palma to materially raise the tariff schedule and it is more than likely that such an act, which might have been obviated by the passage of the reciprocity bill, will have a detrimental effect on the trade of the United States with the island. Last year the exports of bacon, salt pork and lard from this country to Cuba amounted to approximately $4,000,000 at a tariff of $2.50 per hundred kilos. That tariff is now to be doubled. The exports of lard to Cuba amounted last year to $14,000,000 the tariff being $5.50 per hundred kilos. That rate is to be increased 50 per cent. Our exports of flour amounted to over $2,000,000 under a tariff of $1.50 per hundred kilos. Hereafter the tariff will be $3.00 per hundred kilos. Other instances might be given but these quoted are sufficient to demonstrate how serious an effect on the trade of the United States with Cuba the proposed increase is likely to have. There is little doubt the president realizes these facts and that they have their share in impelling him to so strongly urge a policy which will insure to the United States material concessions from the tariff charged on Cuban imports from other countries.

the west. Few people realize the demand for money occasioned by the movement of a crop of upwards of 5,000,000 bushels of wheat and corn, and in previous years the treasury department has been unable to supply the demand for currency and especially for bills of the small denominations. Since the first of January the shipment of this class of bills has amounted to $7,845,000 as against $2,500,000 for the same period of last year. There are on hand today bills of all denominations to the amount of $291,500,000 as against $220,290,000 at this time last year.

The sudden death of Senator McMillan of Michigan, which occurred at his summer home at Manchester, Mass., has occasioned sincere regret in Washington. As chairman of the senate committee on District of Columbia the senator came into closer relations with the residents of the district than any other member of the senate, and it was unanimously recognized that long as he held that position the affairs of the district were in good hands. The loss of Senator McMillan to his state, the nation and the party is keenly appreciated by public men in Washington and it is predicted that his place will be heard to fill. The nomination of his son to complete the late senator's unexpired term is anticipated.

WENNER—PAUL.

On Aug. 14, at four o'clock a pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride, Miss Elsie G. Paul, daughter of J. Frank and Nellie Gilliam Paul of York, Me.

The bridegroom, Mr. Martin J. Wenner of Brooklyn, N. Y., has just finished service in the United States navy.

The bridal party marched to an arbor of goldenrod and ferns, made under the trees where the guests, many of whom were from out of town, were assembled. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. C. Chapman of the Methodist church.

The bride, in a dainty white gown, and carrying white sweet-peas, was attended by her sister, Miss Alta W. Paul, who was also in white with pink sweet peas. The best man was John M. Wenner, brother of the groom.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, which was decorated with ferns and hydrangeas.

The young couple received many beautiful gifts.

EVIDENCE THAT IT IS THE FRONT PART OF THE BRAIN

THE EXACT SEAT IN THE BRAIN OF THE

HIGHEST INTELLECTUAL FACILITIES

HAS BEEN A POINT OF DEBATE SINCE THE

FUNCTIONS OF THE ORGAN OF MIND

WERE FIRST INVESTIGATED

WITH ACCURACY

SAYS A WRITER IN THE LONDON CHRONICLE

THE GENERAL CONSENSUS OF OPINION

LOCALIZES WHAT WE TERM "MIND" IN THE

PREFRONTAL LOBES OF THE BRAIN

BUT BY ANOTHER SCHOOL OF THINKERS

THE HINDER LOBES HAVE BEEN CREDITED

WITH PERFORMING OUR HIGHEST CERE

BRALE DUTIES

THE BALANCE OF EVIDENCE, I SHOULD SAY

IS DECIDEDLY IN FAVOR OF THE FORMER

VIEW

AND RECENT RESEARCHES AND OBSERVATIONS

BY DR. PHELPS, AN AMERICAN INVESTIGATOR

WOULD APPEAR TO ASSIST IN STRENGTHEN

ING THE OPINION THAT THE MOST IMPOR

TANT PORTION OF THE BRAIN IS ITS INTER

IOR REGION

IN THE COURSE OF THE INVESTIGATION

ATIONS IN QUESTION SOME 235 CASES

OF BRAIN INJURY AND DISEASE WERE

EXAMINED

IN ALL SAVE TWO IT WAS NOTED THAT

INTERFERENCE OF EXTENSIVE NATURE

WITH THE PREFRONTAL REGION RESULTED

IN SERIOUS DISTURBANCES OF THE MENTAL

FUNCTIONS

LESS SEVERE INJURY PRODUCED LESS

MARKED EFFECTS

THESE FACTS PARALLEL THE RESEARCHES

OF OTHER INVESTIGATORS

AND THEY ARE FURTHER SUBSTANTIATED

BY WHAT IS OBSERVED IN CASES OF IDIOCY

CONNECTED WITH A WANT OF DEVELOP

MENT OF THE FRONTAL LOBES OF THE BRAIN

AS TO THE RELATIVE IMPORTANCE OF

THE TWO LOBES OR HALVES OF THE CEREBRUM

OR CHIEF BRAIN MASS MOST OF US KNOW

THAT EACH HALF GOVERNS THE OPPOSITE

SIDE OF THE BODY

AND THAT, AS WE ARE RIGHT HANDED

SO WE MAY BE CALLED LEFT BRAINED

THE SUPERIORITY IN FUNCTIONAL

IMPORTANCE OF OUR LEFT BRAIN IS NOT

QUESTIONED

AND IT IS THEREFORE INTERESTING

TO FIND DR. PHELPS INSISTING FROM

THE RESULTS OF HIS INVESTIGATIONS

THAT OUR LEFT BRAIN LOBE IS REALLY THE

INTELLECTUAL HALF

THE RIGHT HALF, IT IS ADDED

IS CAPABLE OF SUSTAINING SEVERE

INJURY WITHOUT MARKED MENTAL

Bankrupts in Liverty

At one time in England and Scotland

bankrupts were compelled to wear

a distinctive dress

This was a result of enactments passed at various times in Scotland from the year 1600

to 1688

The Edinburgh court of sessions specified the dress to be of parti color, one half yellow and the other brown, something after the style of the dress now worn in English prisons by the worst class of prisoners, those who have attempted to escape or been guilty of murderous assaults on offi cers

The enactment also provided that the bankrupt should be exhibited pub licly in the market place of his town for a period of two hours and then sent away, condemned to wear the dress until such time as he had paid his debts or some one else had done it for him

Although this was a period of laws which can only be described as feroc ious, this law was such an outrage on public sentiment that in 1688 it was so far repealed that the wearing of the dress was only compulsory in cases in which fraud had been proved or, cur iously enough, if the bankrupt had been convicted of smuggling

The same practice was legal, but not generally in force in England down to the year 1836

The idea was, of course, to warn persons who might have given credit that the bankrupt was not able to pay, but popular sentiment soon re cognized that it was wholly unfair to impose such excessive penalties on a man who might have become bank rupt through no fault of his own, and as usual, when the law became con trary to public feeling it ceased to be operative

Where Wives Rule Husbands

In the valley of the Barca, in Abyss inia, there is a community where the women, without holding meetings or agitations of any kind, have emanci

ipated themselves

All the women work hard, while the men are idle; but, by way of compensation, the house and all it contains belong to the wife

At the least unkind word she turns the husband out at night, in storm or rain, and he cannot come back until he makes amends by the gift of a cow

The wife considers it a duty to abuse the husband, and if she were weak enough to show any love for him in life or grief at his death she would be scorned by her tribe

The wife, without any reason, may strike her tent and go, taking with

Shrinkage and Increase—Conditions That Cause Them

Farm products stored after harvest are usually subject to variation in weight, which generally manifests it self in a loss or shrinkage

The question of shrinkage is always im portant to the farmer because it has a direct bearing upon the marketing of his products and the financial results

Storing farm products, however, does not always entail a decrease in weight,

but on the contrary, sometimes results

in a marked increase

As early as 1879 Dr. Kedzie of Michi gan showed that wheat when allowed to become overripe, or dead ripe, as it is generally called, weighs slightly less than when harvested at the period of complete ripeness

It was also found that the amount and quality of the flour as well as the germinating power of the grain are reduced when the crop is allowed to stand after complete ripeness has been reached

The great loss, however, due to overripeness is caused by the shelling of the grain

Certain varieties of wheat have a less tendency to shell than others, and by giving these the preference and har vesting at the proper stage of maturity loss from this source can be reduced to a minimum

Observation of wheat during storage

in a Michigan elevator led to the con clusion that the variation of weight of well cured wheat in Michigan does not amount to more than 3 per cent

At the New York station it has been found that air dry grain of oats, barley and wheat placed in an absolutely dry atmosphere for eighteen days lost in weight 9.3, 7.8 and 6.2 per cent, re spectively

The loss at first was very rapid, but it became slower and slower toward the end of the test

On the other hand, a number of ex periments are on record which show the moisture absorbing capacity of wheat and other grains

Results obtained experimentally by Hilgard led him to the belief that wheat cured

in California "in the field at harvest time becomes nearly as dry as it would in an absolutely dry air and on trans porting to a temperate climate may possibly increase 25 per cent, while a gain of 5 to 15 per cent may be looked for with almost absolute certainty

The Utah experiment station has ob served that in the dry climate of that state wheat gained slightly in weight

during winter storage
